ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5

10

A camera having a main body housing and a display housing. The display housing of a display unit is rotatively supported by a shaft of the camera to be movably remote from or near to the main body housing, and is capable of changing the direction of an image display plane. The disk driving mechanism and a circuit board having a control circuit for an image pickup device are disposed in different housings.